Purpose

The Terra Foundation for American Art International Publication Grant must be applied directly to publication of the applicant book. The publisher may use the funds to underwrite editing and production costs, such as: editorial research; obtaining and clearing rights for pictures; translation; color reproduction of images; commissioned diagrams, drawings, or photography; high-quality printing and manufacturing; design; and other aspects of publication.

Purpose for which grant is needed:

Explanatory comments (please be specific and detailed; a second sheet may be used):

If the publisher has submitted, or will submit, an application for another subsidy for this project, please specify the source and the amount requested:

If this publication has already received a subsidy or grant from another source, please specify the source and the amount:

Peer reviews are an important component of the application. Please supply the name and address of each peer reviewer, or have two reviewers external to the project and publishing house complete a Confidential Manuscript Report form supplied by CAA. Please list the names of reviewers below:

If a Terra Foundation for American Art International Publication Grant is awarded, the publisher agrees to publish the manuscript without substantially departing from the specifications established above. If substantive changes become necessary, the publisher should inform the CAA Director of Publications before publishing the book. Significant changes to the specifications may in some instances result in the cancellation of a grant, if CAA determines that the book no longer meets the standards on which the award was based. CAA disperses grant monies on receipt of six copies of the published book.

The publisher also agrees to acknowledge the subsidy by printing the following statement on the copyright page or on the reverse of the title page:

This publication has been made possible through support from the Terra Foundation for American Art International Publication Program of the College Art Association.

The College Art Association and Terra Foundation for American Art logotypes must appear below this statement. CAA will supply digital files of these logotypes during the production phase.
